4. Divisions and Forums

- Divisions and Forums are scientific networks for RSC members. Their role is to monitor development, research, education and training in their respective fields of the chemical sciences and to provide regular feedback to the RSC via one of its Boards.

What do I get from joining scientific groups?

- Pursue your interest in specific areas of the chemical sciences
- Meet other members at meetings and conferences
- If you are a student, you may be eligible for a bursary to attend a conference
- Some groups have their own newsletters

Membership to all Divisions and Forums is free of charge, please indicate below which of these groups you wish to join
