H-index ranking of living chemists

This list of living chemists has been compiled by Henry Schaefer, of the University of Georgia, US, together with colleague Amy Peterson. The pair assessed the h-index of around 2000 chemists; this list includes those with a score of 55 or greater.

The h-index was devised by physicist Jorge Hirsch in 2005 to measure research impact. A scientist's h-index is the highest number of papers they have published which have each amassed at least that number of citations: George Whitesides, with an h of 169, has published 169 papers which have each received at least 169 citations, for example.

A full Chemistry World news story on the list first appeared here: www.rsc.org/chemistryworld/News/2007/April/23040701.asp
And in the May 2007 edition of Chemistry World magazine.
The latest update is 12 December 2011.
