

Organic & Biomolecular Chemistry Emerging Areas

Guidelines for Authors

1. Style

Organic & Biomolecular Chemistry Emerging Areas are very short, easy-to-read articles which are accounts of new and topical areas of research from young scientists in that field. They can be speculative in nature, putting a new area in perspective. They should be relevant to a synthetic, physical or biomolecular organic chemistry audience. Authors are encouraged to identify areas where further developments are imminent, in urgent need of being addressed, and any areas that may be of significance to the organic or biomolecular chemistry communities in general. Organic & Biomolecular Chemistry Emerging Areas will generally be refereed by a member of the Editorial Board/Advisory Board or a Senior Referee.

2. Length

An Organic & Biomolecular Chemistry Emerging Area will typically be 4-8 printed pages in length (ca.10-15 pages of double spaced typescript). Authors can include illustrative material (tables and figures) as they consider appropriate. Article templates can be found at <http://www.rsc.org/Publishing/ReSource/AuthorGuidelines/ElectronicFiles/Templates/index.asp>.

3. Format

The format requirements are broadly the same as for a regular paper for Organic & Biomolecular Chemistry. Please note that authors are responsible for obtaining the permission necessary for the reproduction of figures from other sources (normally permission is required from the publisher). Permission request forms can be found at <http://www.rsc.org/AboutUs/Copyright/Permissionrequests.asp>.

4. Colour

The use of colour in Emerging Areas is encouraged and, where it helps to communicate scientific ideas, is provided free of charge.
