Supporting Information

Palladium complexes of o-xylyl-linked alkoxybenzimidazolin-2-ylidenes: interesting structural conformations and application as pre-catalysts

Murray V. Baker,*a David H. Brown*b, Peter V. Simpson,a Brian W. Skelton,a and Allan H. Whitea

aChemistry M313, School of Biomedical, Biomolecular and Chemical Sciences, The University of Western Australia, 35 Stirling Highway, Crawley, WA 6009, Australia. Email: murray.baker@uwa.edu.au bNanochemistry Research Institute, Department of Applied Chemistry, Curtin University of Technology, Kent St, Bentley, WA 6102, Australia. Email: d.h.brown@curtin.edu.au

Table of Contents

Fig. S1: “Front on” projection of a single molecule of 3b S2
Fig. S2: “Front on” projection of a single molecule of 4a S2
Fig. S3: “Front on” projection of a single molecule of cis-4b S3
Fig. S4: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum of cis-4b (syn) S4
Fig. S5: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum of cis-4b (syn) S5
Fig. S6: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum of cis-4b (anti) S6
Fig. S7: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum of cis-4b (anti) S7
Figure S1. “Front on” projection of a single molecule of 3b.

Figure S2. “Front on” projection of a single molecule of 4a.
Figure S3. “Front on” projection of a single molecule of cis-4b (anti).
Fig. S4: Selective 1D NOESY (600.13 MHz) spectrum of $cis$-4b (syn).
Fig. S5: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum (600.13 MHz) of cis-4b (syn). Note spectrum was recorded at a later date than other 1D NOESY experiments.
Fig. S6: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum (600.13 MHz) of cis-4b (anti).
Fig. S7: Selective 1D NOESY spectrum (600.13 MHz) of cis-4b (anti).