RSC Biomaterials Chemistry Special Interest Group

The RSC Biomaterials Chemistry Special Interest Group was set up in 2005 to provide a focus for groups in UK universities and industry working on the synthesis and characterisation of biomaterials. The group aims to enhance the understanding of the chemistries underlying the use of biomaterials in applications including prostheses, drug delivery and regenerative medicine.

RSC Biomaterials Chemistry Special Interest Group Annual Meetings

Annual meetings of the group are designed to promote biomaterials chemistry research and development, enhance existing links, foster new collaborations and spread expertise. Meetings give participants the opportunity to present new work, discuss data and help to shape the future of research in this important and vibrant area of chemistry.

RSC Biomaterials Chemistry Special Interest Group conference committee:

Brian Saunders (University of Manchester)
Alberto Saiani (University of Manchester)
Paul Roach (Loughborough University)

Travel grants

The Special Interest Group can provide travel grants to help support researchers attend the meeting
