

Meeting of Recently Appointed Academics in Physical Chemistry

Durham University
5 – 7 September 2012

The Meeting of Recently Appointed Academics in Physical Chemistry is a biennial meeting sponsored by the RSC that aims to bring together newly appointed and aspiring academics in physical chemistry. It provides a forum for new appointees to engage with and learn about their role as an academic. The meeting will include presentations providing information about funding opportunities and insights into the process from grant application to funding as well as presentations from established academics concerning career progression, balancing teaching and research and outreach. Participants are also asked to present their research.

The meeting will be held in Trevelyan College at Durham University and will start in the late afternoon of the 5th and run through to the 7th with departure on the 8th of September. The generous support of the RSC will cover all conference and accommodation costs.
