Project Support

The activity of the Chemical Scientific Society 'Flogiston' and the projects carried out by its members enabled the establishment of many contacts between the students society and the representatives of universities and research groups from all over the world. This is also a proof of great effectiveness and ambition of the society members, as well as their great interest in spreading knowledge to all the young scientists. The great effort put into organizing the International Congress of Young Chemists by students of the society each year became a very successful event. It is necessary to mark that this conference, from the very beginning till the end, is made only by students without any help, except for small financial support from the Faculty of Chemistry, Students Self-government and the scientific staff. Despite of this fact, many guest, keynote speakers and participants give a very high note for the professionalism of the organizers and a very warm and friendly atmosphere during the whole congress. It is also a place where many new contacts can be established giving new possibilities of cooperation.

Taking all the above into account, I fully recommend to support this project and thus help these young students and scientists to organize such a huge event like YoungChem.

With best regards
