Synopsis

The objective of the meeting is to promote scientific interactions between researchers in the field and to showcase the key role that synthesis plays in the development of new agrochemicals. New crop protection products are important tools for overcoming the huge challenges that modern agriculture faces - to increase food production and yield in a cost effective and sustainable manner with limited farmland and water supplies and loss of existing solutions through development of resistance or regulatory pressures.

Confirmed Speakers

Confirmed speakers include Prof Ian Baxendale (University of Durham), Prof Greg Challis (University of Warwick), Prof Joe Harriy (University of Sheffield), and leading experts from chemical research in industry.

Call for Posters

Posters are invited for display throughout the meeting and authors are encouraged to present their work in a two-minute flash presentation during the meeting. Please download the abstract template from the event website and submit your abstract by 19th February 2016.

Registration

Registration is open and fees include lunch.

	Up to 19 February	From 20 February
RSC member	£85	£110
Non-member	£105	£135
Student* member	£45	£65
Student* non-member	£65	£85

*Student is undergraduate or post-graduate, not post-doc

Bursaries and Students

A limited number of bursaries are available up to a value of £250 to help cover registration and travel costs for PhD and post-doctoral applicants studying at European academic institutions. Preference will be given to members of the RSC or EFMC, especially those who are selected to present posters, and the closing date for applications is 24th March.

Exhibition

Exhibition stands are welcomed and the rates are:

£450	Exhibition stand (inc 1 full delegate)
£525	Exhibition stand (inc 2 stand staff)
£100	Additional trade stand staff
Trade stand staff have no access to the technical sessions.
£150	Delegate pack inserts (optional extra)
