Electronic Supplementary Information

Contents:

Table S1. A list of 4-electron donor SBCO entries in the CSD. The bridging angle column is color coded according to the magnitude of the vector angle, from green (small) to red (large). The Complex Type column contains abbreviations such as “NR3” when the ligand cannot be represented as part of a simple chemical formula. CCDC refcodes are provided for reference.
