

Supporting information

N,N-diethyl-diaminopropane-Copper(II) Oxalate Self-Reducible Complex for the Solution-Based Synthesis of Copper Nanocrystals

Takanari Togashi,^a Masato Nakayama,^a Ryosuke Miyake,^b Keirei Uruma,^a Katsuhiko Kanaizuka,^a and Masato Kurihara^a a, Department of Science, Faculty of Science, Yamagata University, 1-4-12 Kojirakawa-machi,

Yamagata 990-8560

b, Department of Chemistry, Graduate School of Humanities and Sciences, Ochanomizu University,

2-1-1 Otsuka, Tokyo 112-8610

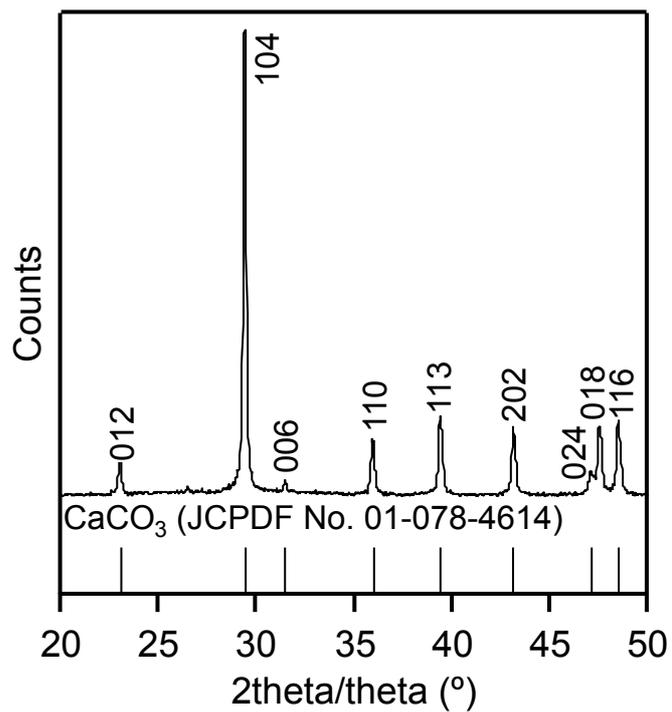

Figure S1. XRD pattern of the white precipitate obtained from saturated Ca(OH)₂ after through the gas evolved during the thermal decomposition of [Cu(ox)(dedap)₂] under Ar flow.