

Supplementary Figure 1: Equivalence of two means power analysis to detect differences between group means expressed as proportions of a standard deviation in a study of 962 European children stratified by different allele frequencies.