

Nebulizing novel multifunctional nanovesicles: the impact of macrophage-targeted-pH-sensitive archaeosomes on pulmonary surfactant

Maria Julia Altube¹, Andrea Cutro², Laura Bakas³, Maria Jose Morilla¹, Edgardo Anibal Disalvo² and Eder Lilia Romero^{1*}

1 Nanomedicine Research Program-2, Science and Technology Department, National University of Quilmes, Bernal, Buenos Aires, Argentina

2 Laboratory of Biointerphases and Biomimetic Systems, (CITSE) National University of Santiago del Estero and CONICET, 4206, RN 9- Km 1125, Santiago del Estero, Argentina.

3 Vegetal Proteins Research Laboratory (LIPROVE), Exact Sciences Faculty, National University of La Plata, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

* Corresponding Author: elromero@unq.edu.ar

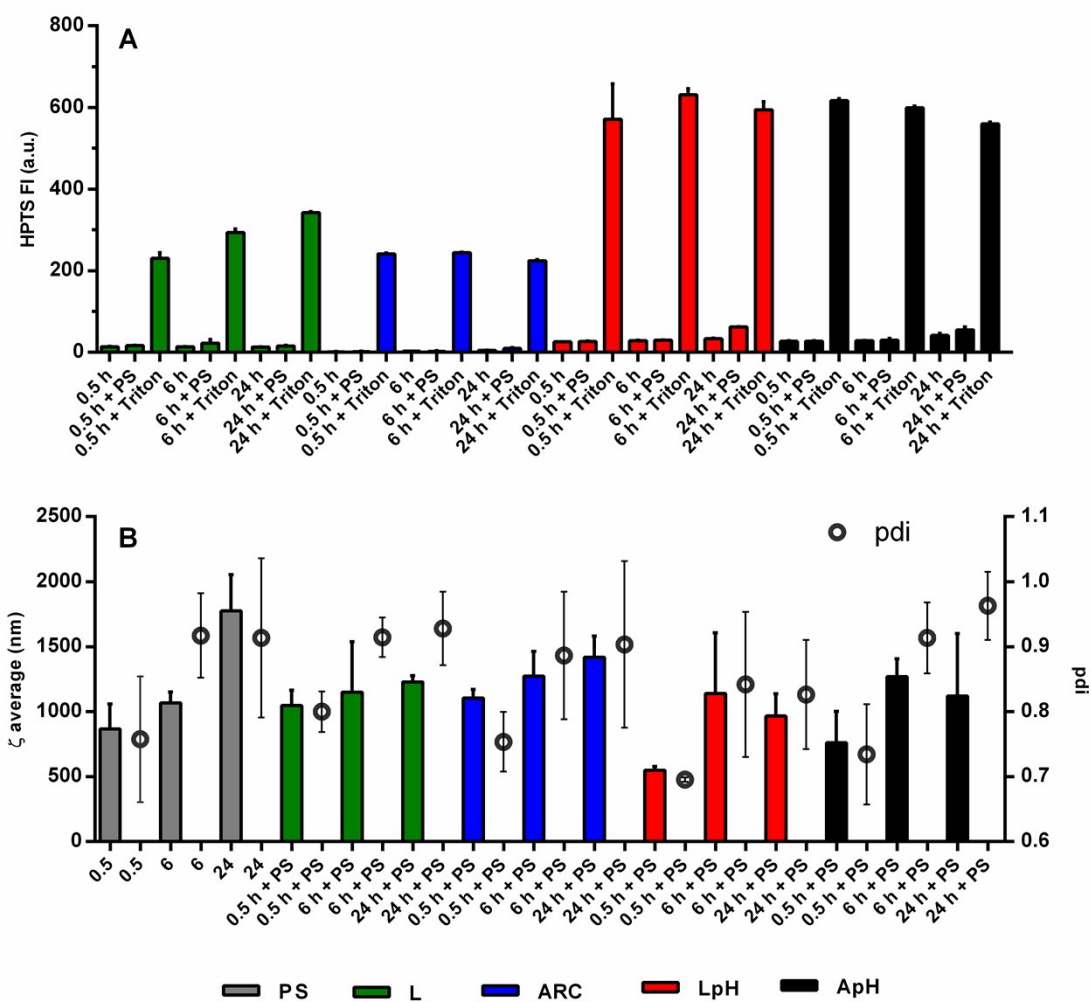

Figure S1: HPTS Fluorescence Intensity (a), Z average and PDI (b) of nanovesicles alone and after contacting PS vesicles or Triton as a function of time.