

NiO nanomaterials: Controlled fabrication, formation mechanism and the application in lithium-ion battery

Jianmin Ma,^{a,b} Jiaqin Yang,^b Lifang Jiao,^b Yuhua Mao,^c Taihong Wang,^a Xiaochuan Duan,^b Jiabiao Lian^b and Wenjun Zheng^{b}*

^aKey Laboratory for Micro-Nano Optoelectronic Devices of Ministry of Education, State Key Laboratory for Chemo/Biosensing and Chemometrics, Hunan University, Changsha, P. R. China

^bDepartment of Materials Chemistry, Key Laboratory of Advanced Energy Materials Chemistry (MOE), College of Chemistry, Nankai University, Tianjin, P. R. China. E-mail: zhwj@nankai.edu.cn

^cShenzhen Capchem Technology Co., LTD

Corresponding Author: Prof. Wenjun Zheng

Address: Department of Materials Chemistry, College of Chemistry, Nankai University, Tianjin, P. R. China

Phone: +86-22-23507951

Fax: +86-22-23502604

E-mail: zhwj@nankai.edu.cn

Supporting Information

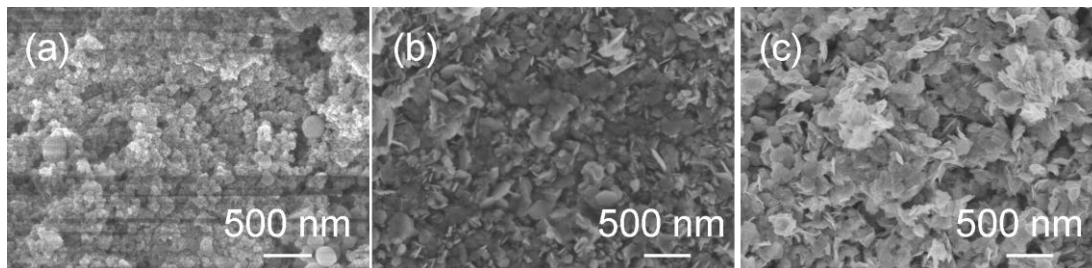

Figure S1 Morphology evolution of sheaf-like superstructures during different times: (a) 0.5h; (b) 3 h; and (c) 5h.

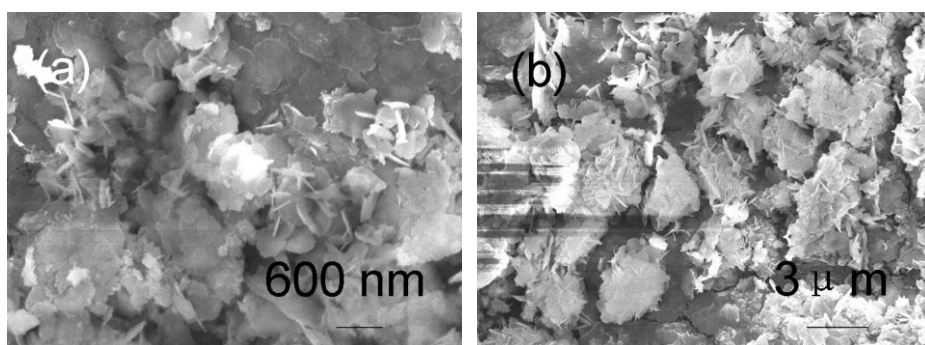

Figure S2 Morphology evolution of flower-like microspheres during different times: (a) 0.5h and (b) 3h.