

Supporting information for

Supersonic microwave co-assistance (SMC) efficient synthesis of red luminescent Eu³⁺ activated silver molybdates and their phase-dependent evolution processes

Jintai Lin^a, Qianming Wang^{a, b, c*}, Yuhui Zheng^a, Yanfen Zhang^a

a. School of Chemistry & Environment, South China Normal University, Guangzhou 510006, China

b. Key Laboratory of Theoretical Chemistry of Environment, Ministry of Education, School of Chemistry & Environment, South China Normal University, Guangzhou 510006, China

c. Guangdong Technology Research Center for Ecological Management and Remediation of Urban Water System, Guangzhou, China, 510006

* To whom the correspondence should be addressed. E-mail: qmwang@scnu.edu.cn

Tel: 86-20-39310258; Fax: 86-20-39310187

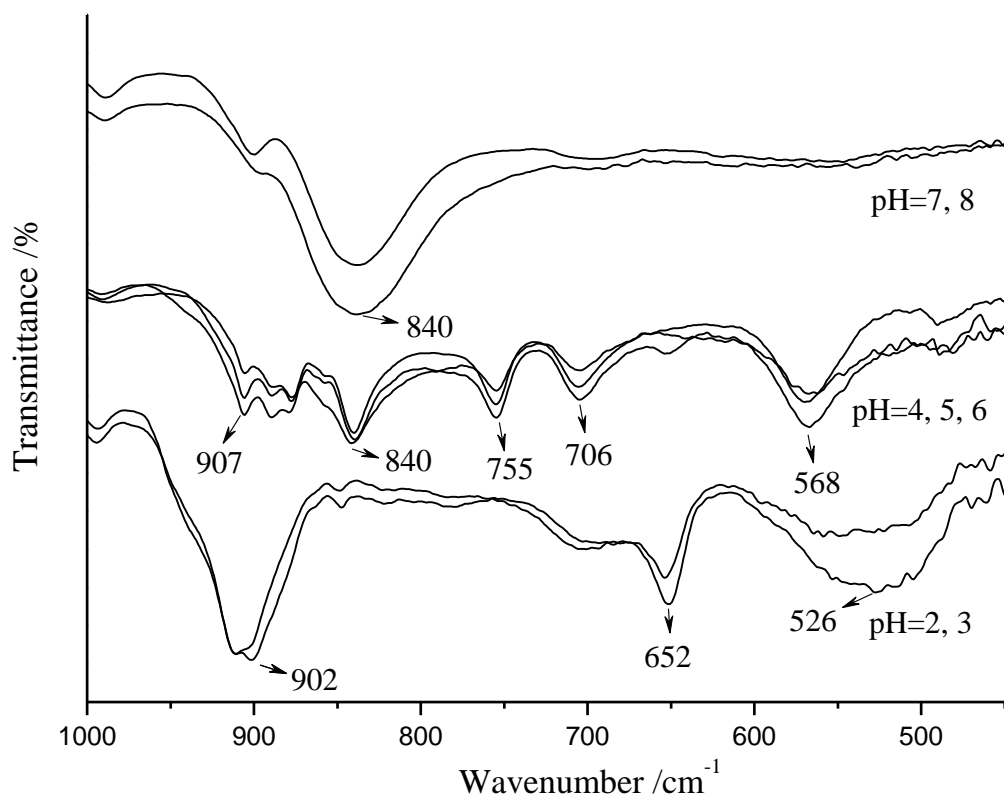

Figure S1. FI-IR spectra of the products synthesized at the condition of different pH values (2-8).