

Supporting Information:

Specific Ion effects on the Electrochemical Properties of Cytochrome c

Luca Medda,<sup>a,b</sup> Andrea Salis,<sup>*b</sup> Edmond Magner<sup>*a</sup>

<sup>a</sup> Department of Chemical and Environmental Sciences & Materials and Surface Science Institute, SFI-SRC in Solar Energy Conversion, University of Limerick, Limerick, Ireland. Email: edmond.magner@ul.ie

<sup>b</sup> Department of Chemical Sciences, University of Cagliari-CSGI and CNBS, Cittadella Universitaria, S.S. 554 bivio Sestu, 09042- Monserrato (CA), Italy. E-mail: asalis@unica.it

Fax: +39 070 6754388; Tel: +39 070 6754362;

Fig. 1S Dfferential pulse voltammograms obtained at 4,4'-bipyridyl modified gold electrodes in three different solutions of cyt c in the presence of 0.2 M NaCl at 298K