

Supporting information

Average Pd oxidation state in Pd/SiO₂ quantified by L₃ edge XANES analysis and its effects on catalytic activity for CO oxidation

Ken-ichi Shimizu,^{*a} Yuichi Kamiya,^b Kaoru Osaki,^c Hisao Yoshida,^d and Atsushi Satsuma^c

^a Catalysis Research Center, Hokkaido University, N-21, W-10, Sapporo 001-0021, Japan

^b Research Faculty of Environmental Earth Science, Hokkaido University, Kita 10 Nishi 5, Sapporo 060-0810, Japan

^c Department of Molecular Design and Engineering, Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University, Nagoya 464-8603, Japan

^d Department of Applied Chemistry, Graduate School of Engineering, Nagoya University, Furo-cho, Chikusa-ku, Nagoya 464-8603, Japan

*Corresponding author: e-mail: kshimizu@cat.hokudai.ac.jp, fax.: +81-11-706-9163

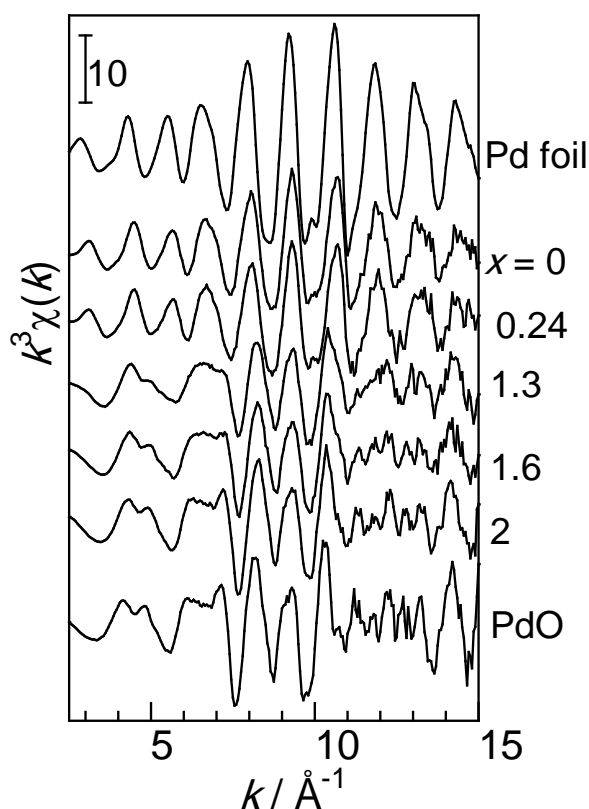

Fig. S1. Pd K-edge EXAFS for the reference compounds and the PdO_{x/2}/SiO₂ samples with different average oxidation number (x).