

Supporting information

Biomimetic FeCo@PDA nanozyme platform with Fenton catalytic activity as efficient antibacterial agent

Fei Kuang<sup>†a</sup>, Yingjie Chen<sup>†b</sup>, Wei Shan<sup>†b</sup>, Yonghai Li<sup>c</sup>, Xichang Bao<sup>c</sup>, Xiang Gao<sup>*a</sup>,
Dong An<sup>*b</sup>, Meng Qiu<sup>*b</sup>

<sup>a</sup> College of Life Sciences, Qingdao University, No.308 Ningxia Road, Qingdao 266071, Shandong, China

<sup>b</sup> Key Laboratory of Marine Chemistry Theory and Technology (Ocean University of China), Ministry of Education, Qingdao, 266100, P. R. China.

<sup>c</sup> CAS Key Laboratory of Bio-based Materials, Qingdao Institute of Bioenergy and Bioprocess Technology, Chinese Academy of Sciences, Qingdao 266101, China

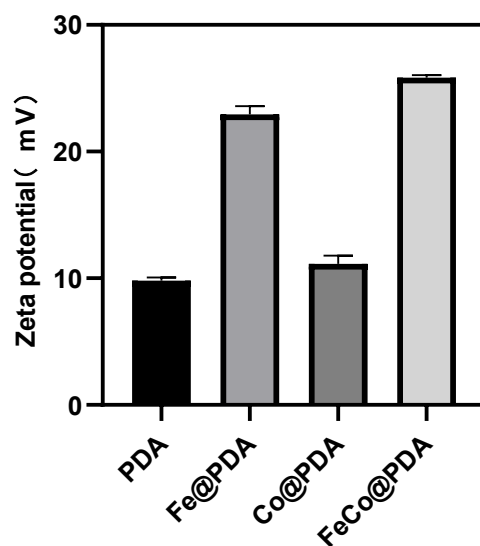

Figure S1. Zeta potential of PDA, Fe@PDA, Co@PDA and FeCo@PDA