

Supporting information

Crystal Engineering to Improve the Dissolution Behaviour of Oleanolic Acid

Junyan Luo¹, Yifei Xie^{1,2}, Ying Feng¹, Boxi Zhang¹, Ningbo Gong^{1,}, and Yang Lu^{1,}

1 Beijing Key Laboratory of Innovative Drug Discovery and Polymorphic Research for Cerebrovascular Diseases, Institute of Materia Medica, Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences and Peking Union Medical College, Beijing 100050, China.

2 Beijing City Key Laboratory of Drug Target Identification and Drug Screening, Institute of Materia Medica, Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences and Peking Union Medical College, Beijing 100050, China.

* Corresponding author.

E-mail: gnb@imm.ac.cn (N. B. Gong); luy@imm.ac.cn (Y. Lu).

Table of Contents

Figure 1S. The stability results of OA and the four solid forms of OA-PIP. (a) OA, (b) Form I, (c) Form II, (d) Form III, (e) Form IV.

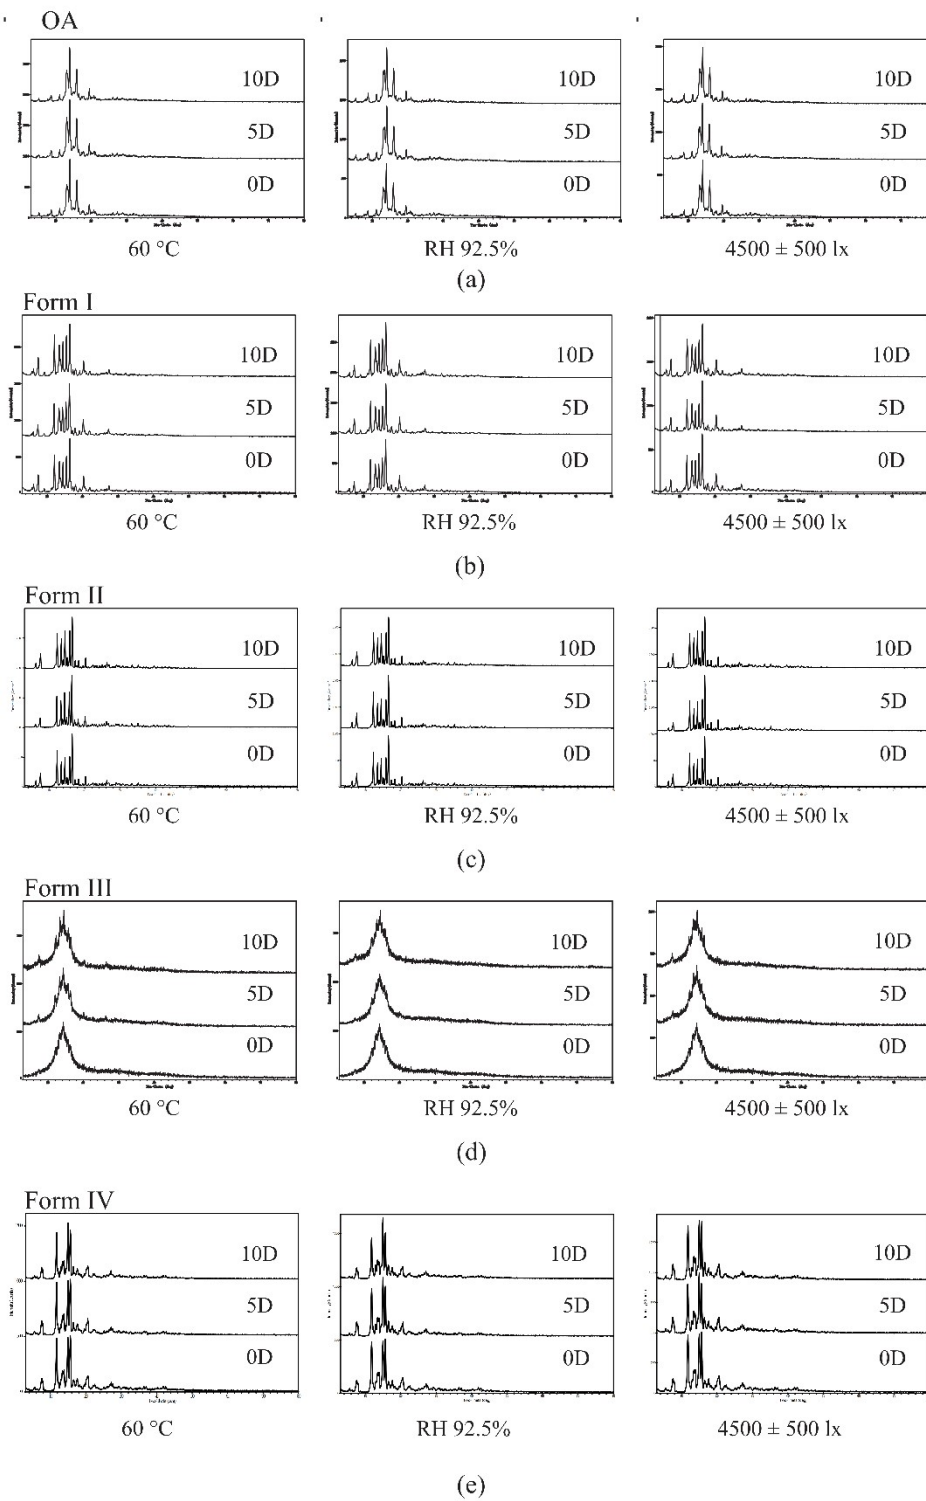

Figure 1S. The stability results of OA and the four solid forms of OA-PIP. (a) OA, (b) Form I, (c) Form II, (d) Form III, (e) Form IV.