

Supplementary Figure 2: Fluorescence micrograph of AChR clusters on multiple myotubes caused by a suspected agrin leakage. The occasionally observed spreading of the AChR clusters over a large area, as illustrated in this image, was possibly caused by the extensive leakage of agrin due to a poor seal between the aperture and the cell(s) covering it.