

Pair correlation function calculated from image analysis: we extract two typical images from the so-called crystalline and amorphous phases, see the confocal microscopy micrographs above, we detect the position of the colloids and calculate  $g(r)$ . The red curve corresponds to the crystalline case while the blue one to the amorphous structure.